

PRESS RELEASE

Veolia Environnement sells its concession contracts in Morocco

Paris, March 8, 2013. Veolia Environnement has signed an agreement, via its holding company Veolia Services à l'Environnement Maroc, with global investment fund Actis to sell its Moroccan water, wastewater and electricity services, operated by concession companies Redal and Amendis. The transaction will contribute around €370 million¹ to the Company's divestment program and, given its accounting treatment under IFRS5 at December 31, 2012, will reduce the company's debt by around 88 million euros in 2013.

This withdrawal reflects Veolia Water's decision to redirect its geographic focus and its growth strategy based on higher added value solutions and activities.

Finalization of the transaction is subject to obtaining formal approval from the relevant public authorities and Moroccan government departments.

Veolia has signed a three-year technical support contract with Actis. This contract will ensure the smooth transition of services, enabling Veolia to share its know-how and expertise in Morocco. The choice of Actis promises to bring high added value for Morocco; Actis has over 60 years of experience of investing exclusively in emerging markets, and particularly across Africa.
